

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

A New Work, by the Author of "Ten Acres Enough."

Derrick and Drill,

Or, an Insight into the Discovery, Development, and Present Condition and Future Prospects of Petroleum in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, &c.

Arranged and edited from numerous sources, by the author of

"TEN ACRES ENOUGH."

The numerous parties who are interested in oil-lands and oil-companies, as well as the more numerous ones who contemplate embarking in the latter, will find in this volume a mass of information bearing directly on a subject most interesting to them. It is a compilation of the experiences of a large number of writers who have personally visited the various oil regions, and whose narratives, thus collected in a volume, will afford a compact but comprehensive view of the wonders, as well as of the profits and losses of this new national staple. It has been prepared with strict impartiality to all interests, the object having been to present a summary of the extraordinary facts now being developed in the oil regions, as given by a multitude of intelligent visitors. This miscellaneous grouping of many different accounts affords a full and lively view of the condition and prospects of a business which has already attracted to it several hundred millions of capital. It will be found exceedingly instructive to all whose interests are likely to lie in that direction.

1 Vol. 12mo, Cloth. Price $1 50.

 Orders respectfully solicited.

JAMES MILLER, Publisher,
522 Broadway, New York.

CONTENTS.

I. NATIONAL ACADEMY OF DESIGN—FORTIETH ANNUAL EXHIBITION.

Introduction : Interior of the New Building.

Notices of the Pictures.

A word about the Statue.

TERMS.

Single subscriptions, $2.00 a year. United States bills preferred.

Single copies, 20 cents.

Subscriptions and communications should be addressed to "JAMES MILLER, 522 Broadway."